The One Eyeglass Theory. [Washington letter.]

To the average American intellect the sight of a person with one glass screwed in his eye is an irritating one.

is an irritating one.

You try to reason it out. You say if the man is really near-sighted two glasses would certainly be better than one. But when you discover that the one eyeglass is merely and always plain glass, and that it is screwed into the face only by an agonizing twist of the muscles, and held there only by a grip of constant attention, then, with all this information in your possession, you are driven to the inevitable conclusion that a man who is guilty of this one-eyeglass theory is an ass! And yet plenty of your "dips" of ability and good training are so wedded to their eyeglasses that they would as soon think of going out upon the streets without them as without their trousers.

English Philology.

[London letter.]

That there is understood to be a difference here between the two languages is shown by the fact that, last Saturday, a full-blooded, intelligent-appearing, well-dressed Englishman came into Bowles' studio, 449 Strand.

"'Ave you American papers on file 'ere?"

"Yes, sir, I have. Lots of 'em," was the answer of the genial Bowles.

"Aw, thanks! I beg pardon, but are any of them printed in English?"

This actually occurred just as related; and serves to illustrate the condition of the information possessed by a large class of Englishmen in reference to American matters.

A Tow Boat Blown out of the Water.

A Tow Boat Blown out of the Water.

Memphis, May 1.—At 9:20 this morning the tow boat Warner, from New Orleans to St. Louis, with five model barges and the trading boat Kaligon in tow, exploded her boilers when opposite the elevator. The pilot house and roof were blown to a great hight and fell back upon the wreck while the air was filled with splinters and fragments. The wreck took fire instantly, and the smoke and steam hid the boat from the crowd which soon lined the bluffs, and it was thought all on board had perished. The tug De Soto and two or three skiffs were soon at the wreck and succeeded in saving the following: John W. Poe, clerk, slightly bruised; Jacob Cox, pilot, badly bruised; he and Poe having been blown into the air and falling back on the wreck. Captain George Dawson was slightly scalded; Napoleon Devinney, pantryman, cut in the head and arm, not dangerously; John Sullivan second cook was badly cut in his arm and was scalded; Clara Blank chambermaid was badly bruised; Barney Cassiday, mate, blown through the roof and badly hurt: Chris Anschutza first Clara Blank chambermaid was badly braised; Barney Cassiday, mate, blown through the roof and badly hurt; Chris Anschutza, first engineer, slightly; Nicholas Gobb, slightly scalded; William Jenks, carpenter, Peter Connolly and Pat Thompson, firemen, unhurt. Dixon Kennet, pilot, and William Radcliff, second engineer, who were asleep at the time, were lost, and one fieeman was totally blown into fragments. The boat had a total crew of twenty-five, but owing to the confusion and hurrying off to the hospital of the wounded it is impossible tell exto the confusion and hurrying off to the hospital of the wounded it is impossible tell exactly how many were lost. In five minutes after the explosion, all the wreck, except the roof, had sunk out of sight, and the tow of barges were on fire, but the tug De Soto extinguished the fire and landed the cargoes on the Arkansas shore. All the officers and crew were residents of St. Louis. The noise of the explosion resembled the discharge of a 10-inch Columbiad, and shook every building in the city.

Although two of the crew stated they saw Captain Dawson after the explosion, it is now certain he was lost, as no trace of him can be found since immediately after the explosion.

THE WAR CLOUD.

A Feeling that a Conflict is Inevitable CONSTANTINOPLE, May 1.—The British eet, which left Ismid for tactial exercise and artillery practice in the sea of Marmora tice in the sea of Marmora will return to its former place in two days. General Toddleben has not succeeded in his efforts to arrange a simultaneous withdrawal of Russian troops and the British fleet from this neighborhood. The Russians are stated to regard war with England as in-evitable. At the porte also hopes of pacific arrangements have become weaker.

English Feeling on the War.

ondon, May 1 .- The political demonstrations for and against the government are the order of this week. The popular meeting at Bradford Monday in support of the government, at which Gathorne Hardy, Indian secretary, spoke, was followed yesterwhich John Bright spoke, and at Brierly Hill in opposition. To-morrow another demonwhich John Bright spoke, and at Briefly Hill in opposition. To-morrow another demon-stration hostile to the government will be held at Birmingham. The whole energy of the opponents of the government in the north and centre of England will thus be heard in combined protest against the policy of the in combined protest against the policy of the cabinet. At the Manchester meeting 1,800 delegates from liberal organizations in the north of England were present. Joseph Chamberlain, radical member of parliament for Birmingham, spoke at Brierly Hill. The speeches of Bright and Chamberlain directly face the issue raised by the government. They ask the country not to choose between the various courses for asserting British interests in the east, but to act on the principle that we have no interests there at all, which are worth the cost of war. They further asked it not to decide how far it is prepared to maintain existing treaties, or by what means the existing engagements can best be reconciled with existing facts, but to pronounce that the existing treaties are an utter mistake.

Rumors of the dissolution of Parliament

Rumors of the dissolution of Parliament are again rife. It is said that conservative associations have received secret instructions associations have received secret instructions to prepare for such a contingency.

London, May 1.—A correspondent of the Liverpool Post says he is informed on trustworthy authority that Lord Beaconsfield has resolved on dissolution, and it will occur about Whitsuntide. It is stated as the result of private inquiries made by the government at various ports as to what steamers are available for cruisers or for the transport of arms or troops, and that about 70 steamers of the first class habe been selected, and will be commaissioned when required. One company here owning forty steamers have offered to place the entire fleet at the service of the government.

Wheat Rusting.

EVANSUILES, May 1.—Reports from this ection and south of the Ohio river, and on he Tennessee and Cumberland rivers, state he wheat crop to be greatly damaged by red rust, which threatens to ruin half of the crop. Two weeks ago wheat looked fine, but it is now attacked with a blighting rust. Farmers and buyers are discouraged.

Chicago, May 1.—The harvesting of winter wheat will begin in southern Illinois in about three weeks. It is already headed out, and the quantity and quality are excellent. The fruit prospects are also very good. The peaches are already as large as hickorynuts, and the trees are well loaded. Cherries will be ripe in the middle of May.

THE PARIS EXPOSITION.

The Opening Program Succession of the Out.

Pars, May 1.—The International exhibition of 1878 was opened to-day with great eclat, the program heretofore made public being strictly carried out. At one time in the morning it was feared that the ceremonies would be interfered with, as at 9 o'clock rain was falling, but at 9:45 the rain ceased, and hopes were inspired that the day would be fine. These were realized at 11:30, when the clouds broke, and the sun shone out brilliantly. The weather though was rather hot.

shone out beiliantly. The weather though was rather bot.

President MacMahon reached the exposition at 2 o'clock, in the state carriage, escorted by his military household. He was welcomed by De Bort, minister of commerce, and declared the exhibition open amid salvos of artiflery and music by bands. The marshal then at the head of a brilliant procession, which included the prince of Wales, ex-King Amadeus, and the crown princes of Denmark and Netherlands, proceeded through the exhibition building. The scene was picturesque and imposing in the extreme. State bodies in grand uniform, councillors and magistrates in their robes and different bodies of the institute and legion of honor stood in strong contrast with the senators, deputies, clergy and minor officers in civil costumes. The exhibition building was gaily decorated with flags of all nations, and an immense crowd was in the vicinity. The American section though unfinished, compares favorable with the others. The department of manufactures show the least pregress. The American art department is the best ever shown abroad by America.

A Possible Russo-German Allis

Cable to the New York Herald.]

London, April 30.—It is considered in official circles in London that the mission of Count Von Moltke to Copenhagen is an event of the utmost importance. It is thought to be a sure indication of Germany's intention to act, as Prince Bismarck's organs have already declared, formally in favor of the neutralizing the Baltic or forbidding the entrance of British ironclads. The object of Count Von Moltke's mission, it is believed here, is to enforce measures on the Danish government which will secure the closing of the sound. Denmark's weaknes is so apparent to all that no one doubts the success of Von Moltke's mission, as she can not afford to refuse a peremptory demand of that nature from mission, as she can not afiord to refuse a peremptory demand of that nature from Germany. This incident may cool the war-like action of the Bräish cabinet, because it proves that Russia is backed by Germany. Many intelligent observers of European politics have long held this view, but most Englishmen refused to believe it, and the truth is now brought home to them at a moment when any receding from the demands already put forth by the Beaconsfield cabinet would be a national humiliation.

England is entirely isolated. She finds herself confronted by war, with no apparent prospect of an alliance except with the moribund Turk, and whatever Moslem fanaticism she may be able to stir up in her own empire. The prospect now apparently is that the British government will shortly make a movement toward a compromise.

The Baltic incident may be considered as hopeful, inasmuch as it increases the chances of a peaceful solution, by showing the English people the enormous odds likely to be against them in case of war.

Raiders into Mexico come to Grief.

New Orleans, May 1.—The Galveston News's Brownsville special says on Friday last about 200 men assembled at Sanorias, about eighteen miles from here on the Corpus Christi road. From there they marched to Sangsedors, on the river, reaching there about 3 o'clock Saturday morning.
Here about 50 men attempted to cross the Rio Grande into Mexico. They were led by Raphael Lera. They were met by a party of regulars from Matamoras, and a skirmish ensued which resulted in the discomfiture of the conspirators, eight of whom were made prisoners and two wounded and two killed and three others were drowned in the river in their efforts to in the river in their efforts to re-cross. It is thought the remainder of the band must have gone further up the river before attempting to cross. It is understood that the object of from Reynosa to Matamoras.

These Lerdistes were under the leadership of Colonels Murray and Christo Carlos Devocke and Raphael Liera. Two of these were living in this city.

Nsw York, May 1.—The Sun has an interview with a gentleman who had a long talk with Mrs. Tilton. He found her serene and happy. She said the confession was due entirely to a sermon by Mr. Beecher on confessing, and that Theodore knew nothing of it. Excusing herself for ardently supporting Beecher in the years she protested their innocence. She said it was resolved by herself and Beecher to protect each other and conceal their guilt. Mr. Beecher said it must never be told, and she yielded to him. never be told, and she yielded to him

THERE will be a panic in the "confession" market some fine morning from lack of confidence, and several operators will get badly bitten from stock on hand.

IF the statesmen in congress want to relieve working men, why don't they reduce the duty on sugar, instead of cutting down the tax on tobacco? The sugar duty is over 60 per cent.

A JUDGE at San Francisco decided that a Chinaman wasn't a white man, and now a committee of congress has resolved to report in favor of putting a tax of a hundred dollars a head on him when he comes to this country.

CIVIL SERVICE reform will take some offices out of politics. That will diminish the prizes and the money spent to get them. That will lessen the competition. Money makes corruption. If there were not money prizes in politics, the government would be easier and better.

Since the set-back the disappointed architects have received, their champion, the Journal, is making amends for its accusations of "job" and "ring" in their behalf against the state house commissioners, by printing accounts of facts with dropsical headlines creditable to the commissioners. Before long it will be giving them the strongest kind of editorial endorsement, as The News predicted it would.

THE Louisana legislature having passed the Moffett registry bill, the governor has promulgated the law, and Louisiana follows Virginia in taxing every drink of liquor. The rate is smaller, however, being only a quarter of a cent on each drink, which it is expected will yield a revenue of $300,000 a year. The liquor dealers have combined to make a bitter fight against the law, and will leave no means untried to overthrow it. They even declare they will never subscribe another cent to aid the democratic party, which passed the bill, and they will fight that party in the future and help to defeat it at the next election.

A NEW YORK Herald correspondent, who has been investigating the condition of the cotton and leather business of Massetts, makes a most favorable report, The He ald says:

The interviews show that the New England tion mills are to-day making handsome ofits, which the mills of Great Britain are not doing, and that our export cotton trade is arger than it was before the war. In the eather trade, which is another of the great industries of Massachusetts, the same healthy and encouraging condition is reported. No better evidence than this could be presented of our returning, prosperity. It is possible that other brunches of industry have not yet begun to experience this healthy activity, but in the nature of things it can not be long delayed. When the great industries begin to move all the lesser ones must inevitably move with them.

A WASHINGTON dispatch says the republican congressional committee is getting ready for work, but the president will not permit the state associations of department clerks to be reorganized. Business will not begin again at the old stand. Branch establishments will no longer be known by transparencies over the door with the name of the state on them, and a candle inside to represent the light hid under a bushel. Voluntary contributions, however, may be placed in the hat. No man must give on compul-sion, but if he goes to Falstaff and considers his ways and is wise he will give on instinct. Those who are without money and without price can give their labor after department hours, directing tons of campaign documents and forging the franks of congressmen. Let us have peace.

THE Fort Wayne Sentinel is disingenuous. It having said that Indianapolis had thousands of dollars of eity orders outstanding, and that no man knew what the debt of the city was, we informed it that the debt was known to a cent and not a single order was outstanding. The Sentinel never alluded to this refutation.

It now says: The reason there are no city orders afloat in Indianapolis is because they have all been recently funded into bonds. We can easily wipe out our floating debt at any time in the same manner.

This also is untrue. The city orders were not funded into bonds. They were paid, and expenses were reduced so that they could be paid out of the revenue. The law limiting the rate of taxation prohibits with heavy penalties the issuing of city orders. This city pays cash for everything.

ABOUT the time the fifty thousand readers of The News see this paragraph, Paris has finished her first day at the exposition, has eaten her evening meal and is bedecking herself for the gaudier and higher spiced pleasures that caper abroad in the brilliant glare of millions of garish gas jets. A May evening in Paris, when the day seems to halt for a last look at the beauties it is leaving, is delightful.

Down the broad and leafy boulevards the lights twinkle and stare through the thick green foliage in a dazed sort of way, as if they were just awake and not certain as to what they can do, cases are crowded, the street seats are full. All Paris is out of doors for the breathing spell between the pleasures of the day and nigh If it rained in Paris to-day the bearing of these observations does not lie in the application.

THE American Architect newspaper offers crumbs of comfort to the dis appointed state house architects by telling them 'that they escaped a contract as stiff as a straight jacket and strong as a jail. Says the Architect: "The commissioners seem to be doing their work pretty thoroughly; they have at least reserved the power of making the architect's life a burden to him It is possible that a more exacting board might have required that he should submit to have his ears cropped and his nose slit in case of any attempt to escape from servitude. Excepting this we do not see that there is anything in reason left for them to demand.

No better testimony could be given than this, that instead of the slap-dash method that ran the cost of our court house from three-quarters of a million to twice that, the state house is to be built for no more than the amount named. The people of Indiana are very well satisfied with the vigilance of the state house board There is a comfortable conviction that they know what they are about.

TEN days ago The News said, "Todleben's appointment to relieve the Grand Duke Nicholas at San Stefano we regard as a warlike and not a pacific measure, as the dispatch indicates it is." The able correspondents at the front, after studying the situation have come to the same conclusion. "Todleben's appointment portends strife," says a Constantinople dispatch this morning. Any movement that retires such incompetent noodles as Nicholas and puts in place such generals as Todleben, means war. The Russians in Roumelia have need of the best brains they can find. The Mussulman insurrection in their rear is becoming so formidable as to require a withdrawal of a portion of their San Stefano army. Around Constantinople there is an army of 70,000 Turks. They will be against Russia who ever is for her. England is making ready for war as fast as possible. Italy is getting her hands loose to take hold of Albania. Austria will probably take Bosnia and Herzegovina at the first convenient opportunity. Greece will fight for Thessaly and Macedonia. Roumania will antagonize Russia on a half chance. The Balkanian peninsula will be the cock-pit of Europe for the next decade.

GRIM-VISAGED war doesn't smooth his wrinkled front to any great extent in Europe. The talk of mutual withdrawal from Constantinople is evidently all talk. Russia would be afraid of Turkey in such an event if not England. There is gathering evidence that the Turk is still an Anglophilist. He refuses to surrender Shumla and Varna, in Bulgaria, and Batoum, in Armenia, and before the last Russian would have his back turned for withdrawal to Adrianople the hundred thousand men of the scattered Turkish army lying around Constantinople would spring to the trenches, and the places that know the Russians now would know them no more without a terrific fight. In England the greatest enthusiasm prevails among the soldiers and the most formidable war preparations are unceasing with the government. In India the enthusiasm among the native troops is beyond the most sanguine expectations. Whole regiments are volunteering to a man and contending for the first shipment. Gathorn Hardy, secretary of war, made a pepper and ginger speech the other night, declaring England's unalterable determination to have every question affecting the treaties of 1856 and 1871 discussed. If the czar wants a row he has only to tread on the tail of Johnny Bull's coat; he would a little rather fight than not now.

The editor of the Rutland (Vt.) Herald and Globe considers the president's appointments to date "the worst set that ever disgraced and degraded the public service." The Courier Journal gets excited in its graspings for the ultimate good in the politinfinite and says: "Events roll on and the whirligig of truth and justice will in due season bring its revenges." That's about the average political conception of the motive and purpose of truth and justice, a whirligig, for revenge.

ENGLAND'S INDIAN LEVIES. The Men who Can be Drawn Upon to Fight Russia. [London Correspondence N. Y. Hersld.]

It appears that the Bengal regiments selected for the European service of the British empire are at present quartered on railroad lines, and that the others are near the coast. The Goorka regiments are, however, at some distance from Bombay, which will probably be the port of embarkation, and it will take a month to land them at Malta. Of the quality of land them at Malta. Of the quality of this swarthy contingent of the British Mediterranean forces the Echo remarks that from all accounts they are fair types of those warriors with whom the great empire of Hindostan abounds, and that as the recruiting area is practically bound-less, there would be no difficulty, save a pecuniary one, in raising the force to a million. Indeed, there are in India whole nations of soldiers who look upon war as their trade and to whom the regular pay of the Feringhee is an irresistible attraction. So that although 250 rupees ($125) must be deposited as surety for their horse and accourrements the number of candidates anyious to enter the number of candidates anxious to enter the Bengal cavalry is far in advance of th number of vacancies. "But in all this," continues the Echo, "there is a danger. We must remember that the mutiny of 1857 was not a rebellion of the people but of the native army. Let once the fierce soldiery of India learn that they are indis-pensable to the defense of the empire and they will gain exaggerated ideas of their own importance, and probably be again tempted to try their strength with those whose enemies they were called on to fight. At all events, we have commenced an experiment which must be viewed, apart from its bearing on the present crisis, with great gravity. This is the first time Indian troops have been called to Europe, and in a few weeks we shall be better able to report how far this new departure to report how far this new departure in the history of the Anglo-Indian empire is likely to affect England and India."

Speaking of the Goorka troops reminds me of an anecdote concerning these fierce little warriors told me by an officer of the Indian army who saw much service in his day against the Sikhs in the Indian campaigns some thirty years ago. The Goor-kas were there fighting with the English against the Sikhs, and rendered valuable service. Their favorite weapon is a sharp curved knife, which they use with terrific effect. In one of the most sanguinary battles of the war the Goorkas lost one of their best loved officers; one of them marked down the man who had killed the officer, killed him in turn, and then ripped him up with a turn of the terrible knife, tore out his heart and then rubbed the bleeding trophy all over his own face. The Turkish Nizams and Redifs will find fitting allies in these enterprising warriors

"How so?"
"Why, if it should pass, we will go to the people, and show that the democrats

"But suppose it should not pass?"
"When then it would be the easiest thing in the world to prove to the people all this democratic cry of fraud in the presidential count was the sheerest poppycock, and that their failure to repoppycock, and that their failure to re-open the controversy was because they feared to let in the light of truth upon the proceedings. In short we would show that all the fraud there was in the presidential count was a fraudulent attempt on the part of Mr. Tilden's friends to count the part of Mr. Hiden's friends to count him in—a fraud which was prevented from being successful only by the vigil-ance and uncompromising integrity of Zach Chandler and the Louisiana returning board."

I find that this view of the case is beginning to dawn upon the democrats, and as a consequence they even wish that Blair were dead. They are more and more inclined, however, to take the consequences of reopening the controversy, and Blair's ibill is growing in favor day by day. Appearances indicate that it will pass the house, and the responsibility of defeating it will be turned over to the senate. Thurman and Bayard will then a splendid opportunity to commit hari-kari by voting against it.

At Indianapolis there is a newspa which its mission is the emancipation labor. If labor is so much enslaved in this country it is a little singular that so many poor men become rich here. There is nothing that will emancipate labor so soon as good morals and a habit of saving. The mechanic who has learned his trade well; who has no pet vice to feed, and who marries at 25 or 30 a young woman so skilled in household economy that she can make every cent of his wages bring to him its full value, is very certain of becoming a well-to-do if not a rich man. And childhood with its brow of truth
The rich, the poor, on land and sea,
A hundred years to come?

We all within our graves shall sleep,
A hundred years to come;
No living soul for us will weep,

But other men our lands will till,
And other men our streets will fill,
While other birds will sing as gay,
As bright the sunshine as to-day,
A hundred years to come!

THE VIRGINIA BELL-PUNCH. Dealers Don't Like it and a Good Many

The Moffett liquor register has been in operation in Virginia for five or six months, and the merits and defects of the law under which it is used lie on the surface. From fragmentary official reports and newspaper statements, which are the best records within reach, it seems that best records within reach, it seems that the gross revenue from the system will be about $350,000 or $400 000 per annum, as against $137,000 realized by the old liquor license system. In the cities—more particularly in Richmond—the law is executed about as well as was expected, though it is pretty certain that no more than half the driphs sold are projected. the drinks sold are registered. In many the drinks sold are registered. In many country districts it is openly disregarded. The liquor dealers are still opposed to the law. With rare exceptions they long for the day when it will be repealed. In the first place, they complain that it has reduced their business very largely. They assert that many customers who formerly took alcoholic drinks at 10 cents per glass now rather than pay 12½ cents take lager at 5 cents. The tax on lager is one-half cent. Since the Moffett law went into operation the beer glasses have been lessened eration the beer glasses have been lessen eration the over glasses have been lessened in size 10 per cent. In either event however, the consumer pays the tax.

That is so as to first-class salcons.

But there are many bars patronized almost exclusively by negroes, who have never been in the habit of paying more than 5 cents per drink for whisky. They will not now more new. will not pay more now. The consequence is that the proprietors have to sell even worse liquor than before, and, in addition take the risk of defrauding the state of part of the tax, in order to make anything like their former profits. In such bars most of the fraud is perpetrated. Saloons of the better class observe the law.

[New York letter.]
The fact is that business through the winter was light and done on very low margins. But the depreciation in the value of goods, as well as other property, has been immense, and in many cases has swept away the whole interest of a firm in its own establishment. I went through a house the other day when the proprietors had just finished taking account. house the other day when the proprietors had just finished taking account of stock, and one of them told me the actual shrinkage amounted to $80,000. "We shall worry through, because we happen to have a reserve of capital, but we should go up were it not for that resource," he said. It is surprising how many men who thought they were rich two years ago, but find themselves poor to-day from changes over which they had no control and could not even foresee. The shrinkage in real estate in some cases has been fearful. Landlords are reducing their rents to conform with the lowered valuation and the lessened resources of tenants.

English and American Cotton Goods,

[Boston correspondence N. Y. Heraid.]
The great question with the cotton mannfacturers at Lowell and Lawrence is not now to accustom the markets of the world to their superior fabrics, and make them purchase more of their coarse shirtings and drillings, but how to imitate England in mixing a lot of clay and other foreign substances in the finer grades. America to-day is exporting about $13,000,000 worth of cotton fabrics, but they are of the coarser material, and that particular branch is increasing by the week almost. In fact, the mills at Lowell are worked up pretty closely to the ever increasing de-mand for these coarser goods, but when it comes to the finer grades England succeeds n making an article which our best manufacturers can not approach, not because they do not know how, but because they lack the peculiar machinery required to mix these foreign substances with the cot-ton, and still produce a fine article, as England does.

Low Prices for Print Cloths.

The very low price at which hundreds of thousands of pieces of Fall River print cloths have been sold of late, say from 34 to 4½ cents per yard, now excites suspicion, and there is no difficulty in giving the reason why. Watering Plants,

One of the most convenient methods of nowering plants is to use a common small brush broom. By dipping it in the water, and shaking it over the plants with a brisk whipping motion, the water may be applied over the whole collection of plants, in fine spray or large drops, as may be desired. The water should be tepid or bloodwarm. The best time for showering plants, either indoors or out, is after sun set at night, or in the morning before the sun shines upon them. Water should never be applied to the leaves in hot sun unless extremely necessary for some special reason.

Yesterday Township Trustee King began proceedings in Squire Newcomb's court to rid the county of a number of paupers shipped here from Hamilton county and elsewhere. It was decided they had no right here and they will be discharged from the county house imaediately. The expense of the township office for the month of April was $1,685.85, of which $720 was visitors salary for one year.

The Necessity of Punishing Crime of All Grades, and the Sentimentality that Prevents Strict Admistration of Penalties.

"Some people don't seem to understand anything about the necessity that exists for exercising the full power of the law in many petty cases that come up in this court," observed Mayor Caven to a News reporter, as he momentarily suspended the operation of affixing his sign manual to city warrants in favor of the honest workmen employed by the street commissioner.

"Why, what's up now?" inquired the reporter, thinking that something remarkable had occurred to interrupt the usual calm and placid existence of the head of the municipal organization.
"O, nothing particular," he responded, of, hothing particular, the laplocate, it's of every day occurrence. A poor fellow is brought is here charged with stealing half a bushel of coal, worth maybe 10 cents a bushel, and I fix his bond at $100 or $200 and immediately agreat cry is raised about the persocution for such a trifling offense. It may be trifling in itself," continued the mayor, warming up under the remembrance, probably, of the reproaches of divers and sundry interested relatives and friends, "but what are you going to do? If you have money or bonds or stocks you can lock them up in a safe and no one can get at them. But if you have a carload of coal standing in the railroad yard or on a switch, you have no protection except such as the law gives you. There is no safety for property exposed in this way, unless the law is made effective. If a man may take a peck he may take a bushel, and if one may do it all may; and how long will it take to empty a car of its load if such a poli-cy is allowed to be maintained? I tell you there is greater loss occasioned by this petty thieving than from the theft of money, and yet, when an offender is brought before me, and I exercise an intelligent judgment in affixing a bond for his appearance for trial, there is a great howl cause the fellow is 'persecuted' fo

a trivial offense." 'The trouble seems to me," suggested the reporter, "to lie in the mistaken and ridiculous sentiment harbored by many misguided people at present, which cries out in favor of any and every crime." "No, it isn't that so much as it is lax laws and lax administration of them," said laws and lax administration of them," said the mayor.

"Judge Buskirk don't seem to second the efforts of the officers to clean out the vi-cious element," said the reporter. "Only this morning he released two fellows on promise of good behavier, oblivious of his experience of the last few months."

"And the governor is just as bad in hinding to naught the work of the police and the courts," broke in the mayor, in a disgusted tone. "If a man does happen to be convicted and sentenced, he's pardoned out in six months or a year, and is back here again right away to prey on our citizens, until caught at his tricks and our citizens, until caught at his tricks and started through the mill again. People often say to ine: 'You have the power to imprison, why don't you do it?' Suppose I did, would any of those whose incarceration would be of the most benefit to society go to jail? Not a bit of it?' They'd just appeal the case, and that would be the end of it, until a small fine was assessed by the upper court, and they got off scott free, comparatively. This thing of gambling can't be broken up This thing of gambling can't be broken up under the present laws. The men are arrested in raids and six or ten brought in at a time. Suppose I fine them $50 each; if it could be collected it would add $500 to the city treasury. But they won't pay. An appeal is taken, and the case goes over from time to time, until a year goes by. Then the prosecutor is glad to accept a compromise of $5 in two cases and dismiss the rest. The city gets $10 and is out probably $100 in fees. In other respects the city is as badly off. In the Jennie Daily case, after conviction in the city Daily case, after conviction in the city Daily case, after conviction in the city court she appealed and then took a change of venue to Morgan county. When the case came to trial there the jury found for the defendant. It was impossible to convict Jennie Daily of keeping a house of ill-fame. What the city needs is a court having power to punish for violations of city ordinances without the right of appeal. Give me such a law and I will show you a city that will be free from the moral pests that now infest it, and I won to moral pests that now infest it, and I won't be tyrannical either."

The reporter withdrew in a meditative

Disappointed Billiardists.

At 8 o'clock last evening a News report-At 8 o'clock last evening a News reporter in response to an invitation went to the Circle billiard rooms to see a grand entertainment to be given by Monsieur Adrian Izar, the celebrated finger player of the world, and his pupil, Amand Darlot, Monsieur Izar has played before all the crowned heads of Europe and never flinched. The dozen dead-heads present last evening however discontraced him. last evening, however, discouraged him. He waited an hour for an audience, but none came. Monsieur speaks no English, but his pupil explained that the arrangements had been left to a billiardist of this city advertising and exactly and her the second sec ments had been left to a billiardist of this city, advertising and everything, and he had done nothing. "The old man is very mad," said the pupil, "and would like to find the fellow who has given us this disappointment. He would put a head on him." "Gould he do it?" questioned a listener. "Do it?" said the pupil. "Why the old man was a professor of gymnastics for several years in Paris gymnastics for several years in Paris. Feel of his muscle." The reporter felt. It was satisfactory. The professor thus encouraged, made several pugilistic passes through the air at his invisible agent and finished by grasping in pantomime a pair of trowsers by the seat and smashing their occupant to minute atoms on the floor. The two finger players then gathered up their cues, bottles, glasses, ivory balls and other apparatus used in their exhibitions, m in a carpet sack and started off. "You will visit the city again?" asked the reporter. "J-a-m-a-i-s!" said the professor. "Nevaire!" said the pupil.

TIMBER THIEVRS.

Their Depredations in Indiana-An Incicident of Ye Olden Time.

cident of Ye Olden Time.

The recent discussion in congress upon the matter of stealing government timber, came up to-day in conversation between the trustee of a semi-defunct railroad company, if the word may be allowed, and a News reporter, which led to a talk about timber thieves in this state, that will doubtless prove interesting. Said the trustee:

"You've no idea of the care and labor involved in taking care of large timber tracts. The company I represent owns forest land in several counties in this state, and it requires nearly all my time and that of several other people to look after it, and then we are not able to keep it clear of thieves. I have the grand jury in Clay county now investigating several cases of trespass, and I am obliged to keep one man located on a large body of woodland in Morgan county. That doesn't do much good, though. The thieves break through and steal despite all we can do. By the way, did I ever tell you of an incident that occurred up in Newton a number of years ago?"

He had not, and The News reporter begged him to proceed, which he did.

"Our company owned a large body of land up there, 6,000 or 8,000 acres. It abutted on the Illinois state line, and was part timber and part prairie. Belonging to a non-resident, and that non-resident being a railroad corporation, every farmer in the neighborhood looked upon the land as public property, and availed himself of it accordingly. As many as a hundred sleds would be driven in there in a day, and all go out laden with timber. Being up in Kentland one day when availed himself of it accordingly. As many as a hundred sleds would be driven in there in a day, and all go out laden with timber. Being up in Kentland one day when court was in session, I called upon Judge Test, then presiding, and requested him to instruct the grand jury to investigate the matter. He became enthused somewhat, and next day gave a specific charge ito the jury to inquire into the charges, I went back some time afterward, and inquired of the judge whether any indictment had been returned. He answered "No." I expressed surprise, because I had heard the charge, and knowing the facts, did not see how the jury could ovade their duty in the premises. The judge explained that he had subsequently learned that every one of the twelve men composing the jury owned prairie farms, and had fenced them with rails cut on that very land. No wonder I couldn't get an indictment against timber thieves."

The Chicago base ball club arrived in this city this morning, and will make their head-quarters at the Occidental during their stay here. The feeling in favor of the home club rose very considerably this morning when it was learned that in a practice game yesterday, the out-fielders, with the substitutes and four picked men, beat the in-fielders and three picked men, hitting Larkin with great freedom. The weather this morning was such as to indicate a large attendance at the game this afternoon.

Changing the L. C. and L. Tracks.

To-morrow afternoon a committee consisting of Mayor Caven, Aldermen Chandler, Krug and Stratford, Councilmen Case, Steinhauer, A. L. Wright and W. H. Tucker, and Messrs. F. M. Churchman, Wm. H. English, F. M. Stevens, B. C. Shaw, T. A. Morris, John S. Spann, S. A. Fletcher, Jr., B. Atkinson and Geo. White will meet in the city clerk's office. This committee was appointed by the council April 16 to consult with the officers of the Indianapolis, Cincinnati and Lafayette road, with a view to effecting a removal of the railroad tracks from their present location in the eastern part of the city to a place alongside the tracks of the Pan-Han-Changing the L., C. and L. An Incorrigible Offender.

Walter L. Smith, who has just served out a short sentence for forgery, was arrested yosterday by O'Haver and Forbes for the same offense, but what he has been guilty of is obtaining money under false pretenses. His practice has been to sign fictitious names to bank checks and notes and realize on their sale. He will have an examination tomorrow. Henry Cushing, one of his victims, showed up this morning with a $32 note in which he had invested, and the reputed makers of which he couldn't find.

Te the Editor of The Indianapolis News: To settle a controversy, will you please state whether or not it is against the law for a voter in one ward to move into another, vote immediately (same or the next day) and again immediately remove from the ward wherein he voted?

PATRON. It is against the law. A voter must have been a bona-fide resident of the ward for 20 days before the election.—[Ed. News.

BRIGHTWOOD-ITS FUTURE.

The three-line item in The News a few days since, announcing the closing of the Bee Line shops at Galion, Ohio, for the purpose of removal to Brightwood, this city, means far more than it said. It marks more than the mere superiority of Indianapolis over Galion as a manufacturing and distributing point. It signifies much in the direct and lasting benefits to Brightwood as a manufacturing suburb, in the additional number of hands that it will employ and the accretion to her population and industries, which will be by no means a small matter, seeing that there were on the rolls in the Galion shops before removal between 200 and 300 workmen. This important move on the part of the Bee Line will arrest particular attention, as being that much more than the company was expected or obligated to do in return for the grounds donated for workshops, all promises in that direction having been fulfilled long ago. It follows then that the further concentration here of the interests and property of the road, involving the breaking up of plans long laid and in successful operation, and attended with such vast labor and expense as the transportation of the collected materials and machinery of the Galion shops, all this denotes a class of advantages at Brightwood which. like the The three-line item in The News a few of small sums is suggested as the most feasible plan.

O. W. Sidnam, the Chicago pedestrian, challenges Keeley to walk 300 miles, giving Keeley edds of 30 miles, for from $100 to $1,000, and he extends the same challenge to Scully on the sams terms. Or he will walk them both 500 miles, they to walk 250 each.

A good Methodist lady, noted for her labors in matters of benevolence and charity, thinks that Rev. Mr. De La Matyr must have just returned from a begging trip in the interests of some benevolent object, when he stated that five-sixths of the people were penniless.

He collected materials and machinery of the Galion shops, all this denotes a class of advantages at Brightwood, which, like the prophet without honor in his own country, is recognized quicker abroad than at home. The fact is, Indianapolis can hardly realize what a stalwart suburb she has in Brightwood, situated in the heart of a region that abounds in timber, coal, stone, and every other thing that can gladden the heart of the manufacturer, and located on the iron circle that belts the city, connecting her with our entire system of railroads, Brightwood is secure in all the facilities which a large manufacturing seat can desire.

She has crossed the Rubicon, so to speak. She has scaled the Alps of hard times with that push and pluck which prophesies her future. During the unparalleled stringency of the last four years, while many other promising suburbs have literally dried up and blown away Brightwood has been chiefly exercised to take care of the population that came to her. Many vacant tenements in the city have been emptied into the lap of Brightwood, until every available shelter has been filled to overflowing, and she is calling loudly upon capitalists to come and build houses, with every assurance that they will be wanted on completion. Brightwood is the very best type of a thrifty western suburb, uniting the pulse and throb of busy production with the luxury of quiet residence with enough room for each to exist unconscious of the other and yet with unfailing mutual support. How many there are to-day who wish they could turn backward time's wheel far enough to place the investment at Woodruff Place and many other places in Brightwood.

It has an altitude of 110 feet higher than the union depot. It is encorporated under its own city government, out of debt and money in the treasury, with taxes only amounting to 60 cents on a lot per anum against a ratio of $15 to $20 on the same lot if it were located in the city and having a valuation of railroad property which would yield all the revenue they will ever need on a very trifling road property which would yield all the revenue they will ever need on a very trifling ad valorem levy. It is doubtful whether any equal inducement offers anywhere in the west for profitable investment.

All things taken together it does not seem a wild prophesy for Brightwood to predict that she will in the near future be the focal point where the best energies of Indianapo-lis will crystalize in manufactures and many happy homes cluster about it.

THE patronage among the first-class hotels in New York is constantly changing from one hotel to the other. The Grand Central hotel has recently incited the direct wrath of its competitors by offering the same accommodations for one and two dollars per day less than the others.

Doubtless most of our old citizens can remember the pleasant and jovial landlord, Uncle Billy Marsh, who established and opened the Galt House in Cincinnati, in 1836, and kept the same until 1864, and who has now put his sons and Mr. H. H. Davis, formerly of Walnut Street and Avenue Stock Yards Hotels, to bring back the reputation his hotel enjoyed in old time, viz: Giving as much for little money as possible; and thinking, perhaps, that the times would permit of it, has placed the prices at $1.50 per day for any room excepting those on first and second floor front, which will be $2 per day. Try it once and you will certainly go again.

STOUT, the hatter, speaks German. 76 E. Wash. st. THE most excellent attributes to the success of a first-class hotel are courteous treatment, a well appointed culsine, and well furnished rooms. You can find all these at the Colonnade Hotel in Philadelphia.
